I'm a part of law enforcement and I practice gun safety and comply with gun laws. I do not want my tax dollars used to buy guns for law enforcement from firearms dealers who don't comply with gun laws. I see the affects of gun violence every day. The absolute least we can do is to make sure that we buy our firearms from gun dealers who follow the law and best practices to curb gun trafficking. It just makes sense.

Based on this document, is there concern San Diego County is purchasing or has purchased firearms from dealers with documented violations against gun regulations? A vote should be postponed until Evidence of wrongdoing by this County is provided to the people. Or is this a move for even more gun laws?

Purchasing firearms exclusively from law-abiding dealers incentivizes compliance and enhances safety in our County. Our tax dollars should not support dealers who undermine laws designed to combat gun violence.

I support this effort. If the County only purchases firearms from gun dealers who follow the law and best practices to curb gun trafficking, straw purchases, and sales to prohibited persons, more dealers are incentivized to follow the law, making our County safer. Our tax dollars should not be used to purchase firearms for law enforcement from dealers who are not complying with laws created to help make our County safer from gun violence.

I wholeheartedly support the Responsible Firearm Procurement Ordinance before the BOS today. We must make certain that the City only buys from responsible gun dealers. These are our tax dollars, and the City should never do business with dealers who do not follow requirements for background checks, maintain required paperwork or are otherwise lax. The purchasing power of the City will incentivize all gun dealers to comply with laws and responsible best practices, and our communities will be safer

As a native San Diegan and a mother of two girls, I strongly support the Responsible Firearm Purchase Ordinance. To be good stewards of our tax dollars and to assist law enforcement, I believe that firearm dealers who do not follow requirements such as background checks, maintaining required paperwork critical to law enforcement investigations, or training employees to be aware of signs of a straw purchaser, are more likely to sell guns that are then diverted to trafficking and use in crimes.

Karyn Whitten

Please limit county firearm purchases for law enforcement to only dealers who are following the law. Surely we can agree that gun trafficking and illegal sales to prohibited citizens are not how San Diego county intends to do business.

The firearm industry has an outsized role to play in helping to keep crime guns off our streets by conducting background checks as required by law, displaying proper signage, and working to stop straw purchases, among other best practices.

So when the County procures firearms for our law enforcement agencies, they should only use their purchasing power to buy from dealers who are following the law, right? Or so I, a 53 year resident and taxpayer, would assume.

I strongly support the proposed county ordinance requiring stringent compliance for firearm vendors. This ordinance is essential for enhancing community safety, particularly in Black communities disproportionately impacted by gun violence. By enforcing accountability through documentation of compliance, inspection reports, and theft prevention policies, we can reduce illegal firearm access. Moreover, mandating vendor cooperation with law enforcement fosters trust and collaboration.

I SUPORT THE ORDINANCE THAT REQUIRES THE COUNTY TO PURCHASE FIREARMS THRU ONLY CERTIFIED AND VETTED FIREARMS DEALERS. TO PURCHASE FROM NON CERTIFIED DEALERS IS A MISUSE OF TAX DOLLARS AND IS ALSO DEMONSTATES A LACK OF RESPECT AND DIGNITY TO THE LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENTS WHO CARRY THESE FIREARMS AS PART OF THEIR ROLES IN LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Tax dollars should never be used to support businesses that are not following all laws related to their industry. By directing the county to procure firearms only from dealers who are in compliance with regulations such as background check requirements, gun dealers are incentivized to continue to follow those requirements, which keeps our communities safer. The county hopefully would not utilize the services of food suppliers that routinely failed inspections; the same should be true of its firearm procurement. I urge the Board to put forth an ordinance to require this adherence.
