I work in homeless services at the intersection of housing and healthcare. The most vulnerable among us will feel the most effects of the federal administration's cruel decisions. The recent HUD NOFO will make potentially thousands of people who are already stable, in housing with a voucher street homeless; and it will make access to low-barrier shelter almost impossible to fund. I support the Partnership to Protect San Diego, as this can help mitigate some of this damage. I urge the Board to support this item and ensure we have a safety net.

We oppose Terra-Lawsons proposal nor do we support a raise in sales tax or a 3% real estate transfer tax.

On behalf of PATH, we are thankful to see Supervisor Lawson-Remer and the SD Foundation working together to help stem the tide of the incoming Federal cuts. The recent HUD NOFO has the potential to destabilize the infrastructure we have built to address the ongoing homelessness crisis, and we desperately need Local and State support, along with support from the philanthropic sector. All of these cuts, along with the impending end of Emergency Housing Vouchers, have the potential to create a wave of newly unhoused individuals. We urge the Board to support this item and help us protect the regional safety net. Thank you!

I, myself, have made donations to 4 shelters and 2 food banks to help people during the Trump administration's cruel, potentially disastrous, cutoff of funds. But individual donations are minuscule compared to what's needed. About 10% of people give, 90% are worried about their own finances. Supervisor Lawson-Reemer's intelligent and creative proposal, the Partnership to Protect San Diego, is much more realistic to effectively address the gap. I urge the other County Supervisors to support it.

I fully support this partnership and ask the Board to approve this immediately. There are so many people in our community struggling. The current representatives at our capital seem determined to destroy people's lives. Locally, we need to fight back and find ways to help and protect our community members. I strongly support this partnership to help fill the financial gaps created by federal delays. If Washington won't release our taxpayer dollars as promised, we must rely on those in our community who can step up. I fully back Terra's efforts and support the Unity Fund as a practical solution to protect vulnerable San Diegans from hunger and the loss of essential services. I support this partnership to help fill financial gaps to public services. If Washington won't do the right thing and release our taxpayer dollars as promised, we must ask those in the community who can afford it to help out. The only good thing coming out of this mess is that people are supporting each other in times of need. I back Terra's wishes in this issue.

I think this proposal is a fantastic idea and a way to both keep important social services available to those who need them and to enlist the support of some of San Diego's largest philanthropies to help make that happen. I am writing to encourage the San Diego County Supervisors to vote for the Partnership to Protect San Diego. I live in a senior community and I have seen how the housing crisis and the inflation affect the elderly. Many community members have been forced to move to another state or move in with children because they could not afford to live in California any longer. People can't afford the housing, the basics like groceries and medicine. I know you all care about the people living in San Diego, so please vote for this initiative.

Thank you,

2025-1114 - Hello, Totally agree with helping the US citizens especially veterans who are homeless or need medical attention.

How will the County supervisors ensure that illegal aliens or corrupt organizations operating in our County are not funded using San Diego County hard earned tax payer money?

California and San Diego US citizens are already taxed higher than any other State and we have one of the highest housing and gas taxes in the US.

It's a good idea, but premature since Congress seems to be on the verge of restoring some or all of these cuts.

A 5% administrative fee out of $18 mil is $900,000. But it looks like we're just giving $4 mil for a year and 5% would be only $200 K. This would be matched 1 to 1 by the San Diego Foundation. I hope it is financially stable enough. So $8 mil divided by an estimated 400 K SNAP recipients=$20 per person. Minus 5%. Can't we do better? Think of something better? Large community gardens or farms?

It's nice to be prepared, but this might end up being a more-or-less permanent carveout for a lack of SNAP funding which may not be permanent.
