A proposal based on old data. A lot has changed since 2024, when this started.

Looking at the workforce, it is clear that all of these changes require new hires, especially if BHS becomes its own department rather than relying on existing hospital expertise. It also seems that we will be handling about 100,000 new applicants for work requirements and eligibility for services. The current workforce will not be able to handle this and you probably lack personnel with the proper training.

Not sure why the August 2025 proposal links changes to Medicaid and nutritional programs with the realignment of the Behavioral Health System (BHS) into a standalone department. BHS uses many of the same resources as a hospital, so that BHS and other medical services belong in the same organization.

This sounds like a government ploy to set up a new department and deny full support to the people who need Medical and CalFresh. I urge you to reject this scheme.
