Unless this training will make the sheriff's department more compassionate and empathetic, especially with people experiencing homelessness or poverty, this is a waste of taxpayer dollars. I oppose this trip to Scotland.

Since other law enforcement agencies from the USA will be in attendance it is reasonable to expect those agencies could subsequently relay to/train the San Diego Sheriffs' department within the USA or even SD county. But, in anticipation of this being approved, and as the Captain and Sergeant of the San Diego County Sheriff's Emergency Planning Detail were the individuals invited, then only they should be the ones to attend. This keeps the cost within reason, hopefully. And it should not be expanded into vacation time, to prevent any spillage of taxpayer funds into non-work activities.
