1. It looks like there is a misunderstanding of the competitive procurement requirements. The Board Letter says this contract is exempt because the San Diego Housing Commission is the sole source of the services. Yet, the Board Letter says there are 28 community-based organizations that perform these functions. Why is this contract exempt from the normal procurement process if the Commission is not the only organization that perform the functions?

2. The San Diego Housing Commission is experiencing budget issues. The Commission just laid off more than 30 people. Why would the County pay the Commission to train people for outreach? Is the funding just going towards the Commission's budget gap? The Supervisors should consider directing that the funding solely be used for rental and down payment assistance.

A decrease of 693. Against 1,089 becoming homeless each month. These numbers don't look good. Obviously, failed policy. So, spending more money is the plan.

Every person living on the streets represents a policy failure somewhere along the line. Early intervention programs like this are critical to keep people housed and avoid the downward spiral that comes with being homeless. Given that the funds are already available and that they will leverage additional investment, approving this is a no-brainer.

On behalf of PATH, we would like to re-affirm our support for diversion. We appreciate the past support of the Board and the coalition of charitable funders who have helped to champion this successful and cost saving intervention. As you know, the earlier you can intervene in someone's homelessness, the easier and cheaper it will be to resolve. We encourage your full support of this initiative.

A Great idea, giving $1 mil from a failed program to a program that works. It is unfortunate that the city of San Diego is involved, who prolonged this crisis in the first place, pushing it out to the rest of the County rather than solving it there. But just ask them now Midway Rising is going.
