Stop hiring all third parties for jobs! Looks like heathens that don't speak a word of English how are they getting the jobs?

Looks like a lot of needed renovations and repairs which could save lives, injuries, and taxpayer money wasted in lawsuits.

I hope that no qualified out of town applicant is not rejected, though, because the Working Families Ordinance gives a huge 20% preference in the evaluation process to local, small, and disadvantaged business. A great goal, but such a rule applied automatically could result in a worse finished product.

We are told here who the final applicant is but not whether there were, in fact, better out-of-town contractors.
