There is a care crisis in our county. More than 1.8 million hours of IHSS care go unmet in San Diego each year because there aren't enough caregivers to provide the care seniors and people with disabilities desperately need—meanwhile, many retail jobs pay more per hour and offer signing bonuses. There is only one way to solve this crisis: pay IHSS caregivers wages and benefits that reflect the vital service they provide. UDW members look forward to sitting down with you soon.

Increase in substance abuse/behavioral health employees. Current wages aren't livable. Many friends in the field, including myself, are unable to live without a roommate due to high rents and low incomes.
