I am a volunteer at Asian Solidarity collective. I support Supervisor Lawson-Remer's board letter, A data-driven approach to Public Safety. No one should be going to jail just because they are homeless or experiencing a behavioral health crisis. We need data to inform the public and inform the decisions of our policy makers.

I am in strong support of this measure. +1!

I only ask that you provide clear direction as to the data that must be made available to the public at the earliest opportunity. Such data should be provided in a machine-readable format and delivered in an online registration-free streaming function, complete with an API for easier access. Please see this through. There is a wide range of de-identified data that would allow us to provide more informed contributions to county leadership and staff.

I want to thank Supervisor Terra Lawson-Remer & her team for putting forth this community-centered, comprehensive letter to empirically look at our mass incarceration to find effective ways to accomplish justice, equity, and public safety. A recent meta-analysis of 116 studies from 60s-present "Custodial Sanctions and Reoffending: A Meta-Analytic Review" by Damon M. Petrich, Travis C. Pratt, Cheryl Lero Jonson, and Francis T. Cullen conclusively details how mass incarceration makes us less safe.

Hello, my name is Mary Best, I am a LCSW therapist and member of the Racial Justice Coalition-San Diego. I want to thank Supervisor Lawson-Remer for her and her staff's work to present a comprehensive proposal today to create a way forward to address the pandemic level of suffering and needless loss of life experienced by far too many of our most vulnerable residents. Your proposal, if approved and implemented, will make San Diego a more humane place we can all be proud to live and work in.

Incarceration does not keep people safe and that's not what public safety is about. If we want to keep people safe and prevent crime we need to ensure everyone is housed, makes a wage that allows them to afford to live in the county and ensure everyone has access to healthcare that includes mental health services and substance use.

I support the proposed Board action by Supervisor Lawson-Remer. A data driven analysis of incarceration for low level offenses for substance abuse and mental illness, and its impacts on black, brown, LGBTQ+, and homeless people, will lead to cost saving community based solutions. With this data, input from stakeholders, and a review of best practices nation-wide, the County can develop a comprehensive plan to save lives in custody and disrupt recidivism by offering immediate intervention.

I urge the Board of Supervisors to adopt the use of a data-driven exploration of the issues of incarceration and rehabilitation of offenders. How are we helping people by simply locking them up? What alternatives could we use to help people with drug and behavioral issues? Are we making judgments which benefit some groups, but disadvantage others? Why are people of color dealt with harshly? This approach should help us understand what approaches can help achieve more positive outcomes.

Incarceration is not the solution to San Diego's homeless, and public safety and mental health crisis. I support Supervisor T. Lawson- Remer's Recommendations. (My husband and I have lived in SD for 40 years - in a condo downtown for ten years until 5 yrs ago ; we are aware of the issues faced by downtown residents and those living in communities elsewhere in the County. I am in District 4 in La Jolla. I urge my representative, Nathan Fletcher, to support Supervisor Lawson-Remer's motion to adopt a Data Driven Approach to Public Safety. Why would we continue with systems and policies that are not making us more safe when there is evidence that there are other ways of doing business that will make us safer and not have such a negative impact on communities that have born the brunt of our misguided policies of the past and present? Change is needed!

I'm a resident of district 3. I urge you to support Supervisor Lawson-Remer's motion to adopt a Data Driven Approach to Public Safety. The County needs to ensure access to safe and efficient systems of care. We must stop incarcerating people, divest from jails and invest in community services, and alternatives to incarceration.

Thank you.

For many incarcerated mentally ill, it is too much. Suicide rates among prisoners are higher than for any group, and 38 percent of those suicides are people with mental illness. Many a mom has lost a mentally ill child to suicide in jail. In an ultimate act of cant, the ACLU, disability rights organizations, and mental health industry advocates are suing to improve the treatment of the seriously ill behind bars while continuing to support policies that lead to incarceration. Shame on u!

I support Supervisor Tera Lawson-Remer's position on data driven policies about incarceration. It is high time to improve standards at our jails! We are far behind where we should be.

Resident of District 3, writing in support of Supervisor Lawson-Remer's data driven approach to exploring alternatives to incarceration in San Diego County. As our traditional justice system jails far too many people who would be better served by community based support services, such an analysis is vital, and I hope to see the lessons learned from the County's pandemic response be swiftly reflected in alternative public safety initiatives by the Board.

I'm a resident of district 5, and urge you to support Supervisor Lawson-Remer's motion to adopt a Data Driven Approach to Public Safety. I respect law enforcement and the important role they play in our community, but I also believe data can help us do better. A data-driven approach could help us to support our police with better proactive community services which could more effectively, efficiently, and humanely address the root causes of crime and homelessness in our community Thank you.

Lessoning punishment for crimes to reduce jail populations in hopes that these individuals will not continue to commit crimes seems more like enabling criminals versus rehabilitating someone who was never appropriated for their crimes.

To me, data-driven sounds like a cop out where politicians do not decide things but anonymous reports or even computer algorithms do. I do not know whether we learned the lesson of past plagues like the 1453 Black Death and 1666 London plagues - where we need to give people space and not confine them to apartments, rehab facilities, etc., and also to give them alternatives to becoming a GMO proxy by vax.

I strongly support a data driven analysis on alternatives to incarceration that will center the needs of our community rather than allowing BIPOC folks to be stuck in the criminal justice system for their whole lives. Thank you to Sup. Lawson-Remer and their team for their leadership!
